Central Stool

The three-legged Central Stool was originally designed by Tamar de Shalit in 1951 as a student at London’s Central School of Arts and Crafts. The smooth, half-moon, turned wooden form features three tapered legs and crafted mortise and tenon joints. The piece works either as an occasional table or a stool; its straight side can align with the wall or if paired with another stool forms a fully circular side table, which is then secured with hidden magnet fixings.

The Central Stool can be purchased as a single unit (1 stool) or as a pair (2 stools). A pair of stools is more sustainable to produce, thus more economical to purchase; here the two top surfaces are CNC’d from one piece of wood, allowing the wood grain to continue from one to another. The packaging for one stool or a pair of stools is the same size. Fixed inserted felt feet pads are standard.
