

Red Rock Club Chair

Red Rock Club Chair

The Red Rock Club Chair originates from a furniture series custom-created for the famous 1970s Red Rock Hotel and Club, designed by Arthur Goldreich and Tamar de Shalit. The chair offers a compact footprint and low seating, giving it a naive and playful feel. Its stiles are topped with tactile carved spheres, inviting people to hold on while standing behind. The chair features solidly proportioned legs which taper at the feet and feel pleasingly substantial.

Offered in a range of fixed covers in fabric or leather, including Contrast, an exclusive Tamart monochrome woven wool fabric (produced by Bute Fabrics) based on an original 1980s textile designed by Tamar de Shalit. Customers own materials (COM) are subject to approval by Tamart. The cushioned seat and back can be removed for reupholstery. Fixed felt foot pads are partially recessed into the legs and come as standard.
